ELITE HOCKEY AT BOURGET COLLEGE

NHL veteran Matthew Lombardi is one of the Bourget College hockey program founders. Matthew along with the professional staff are present on a daily basis to ensure optimal development and attention to the student-athletes.

This program consists of a select group of driven hockey players who are integrated in a complete academic curriculum and are surrounded by great hockey coaches to assist them to their full potential in all areas, whether it be on the ice or in the classroom.

The Bourget College team program serves to sustain academics with on and off-ice tactical and technical trainings in hockey. This concept will support student-athletes towards obtaining their high school diploma and for post-graduation aspirations.

Competitively speaking, our program will cover up to 60 games compared to programs that seek to cater to NHL, NCAA, USHL, QMJHL, and other scouted routes. So, the games can be played in Canada as well as in the USA. At any given game, the student should expect to be scouted from all different areas and groups that is being pursued. In this compassionate environment, the student will be surrounded by similar peers where they will most likely bond, thus creating a naturally fun and competitive atmosphere.

We are also proud members of the ECEL and CSSHL leagues.
